COURSE DESCRIPTION

Environmental and Terminal Cleaning is a fundamental principle of infection prevention in healthcare settings. Contaminated hospital surfaces play an important role in the transmission of emerging pathogens, including COVID-19 which we are living with, Clostridium Difficile, and antibiotic-resistant organisms such as Methicillin-Resistant Staphylococcus Aureus (MRSA) and Vancomycin-Resistant Enterococci (VRE). Therefore, appropriate disinfection of those surfaces and equipment which patients and healthcare workers touch is necessary to reduce exposure.

COURSE OUTLINER

Introduction to terminal cleaning.

Principles of terminal cleaning.

Able to explain on the PPE to be worn during terminal cleaning

Able to describe the practice of terminal cleaning in the healthcare setting.

Able to monitor for compliance in ward/hospital/ clinical settings.

COURSE OUTCOME

This course intended to map the evidence addressing environmental cleaning, with particular attention given to patients centered outcomes. This is important as due to COVID-19 pandemic, a great intention must be given to this.
